Life is a puzzling affair constructed of bits and pieces. Each year, each day, each moment is made of myriad small thoughts and actions that form the puzzles of our lives. In only a few years or less some of our puzzles will be finished, even if not complete. Others will have the opportunity of seventy years or more to painstakingly continue to mold the pieces of their lives. Whether life consists of many more years or only a few, the pieces that have been laid this year can never be changed. Their effects will be felt for the rest of our lives.

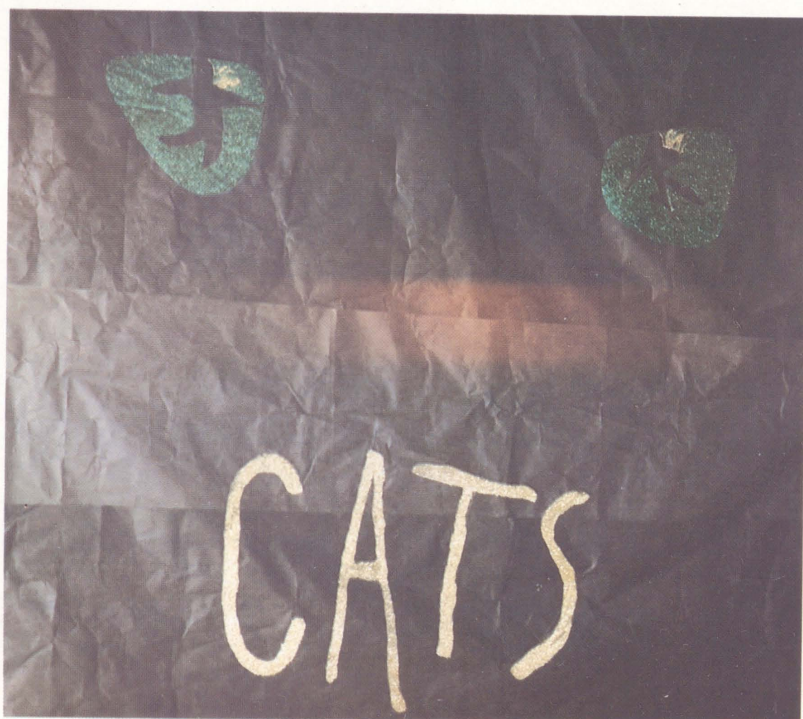

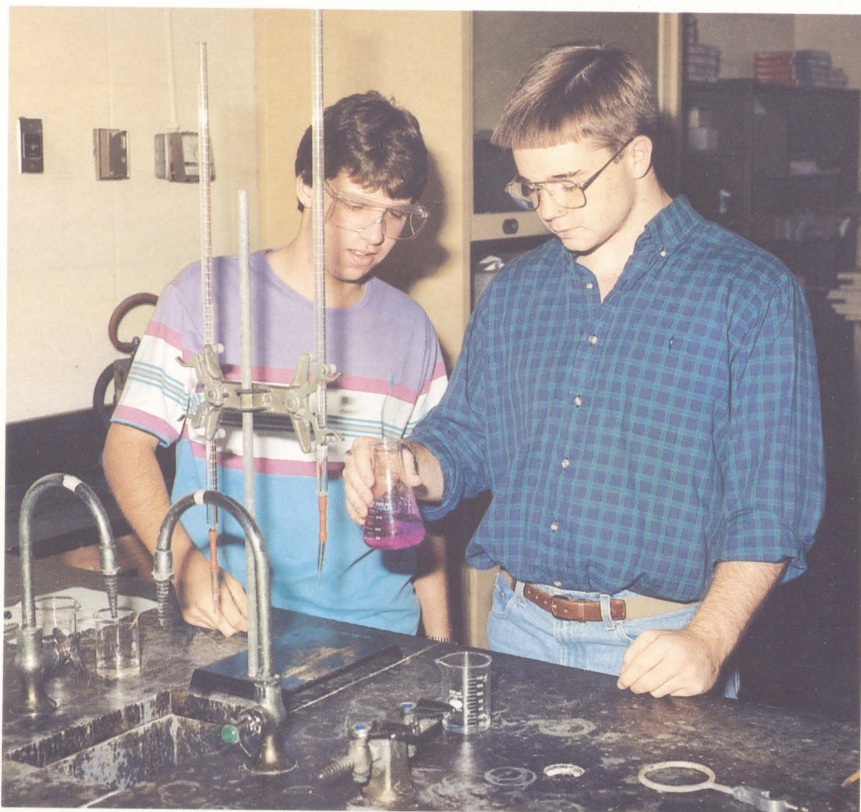

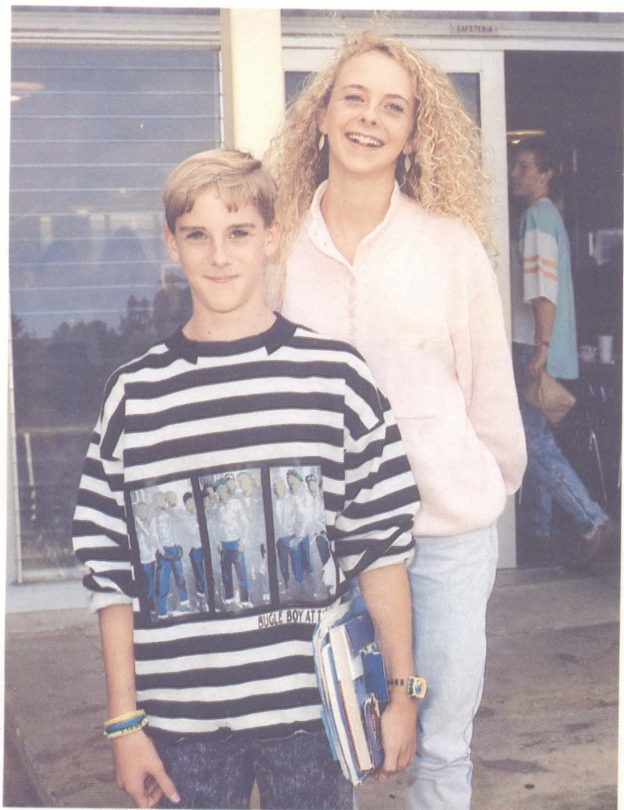

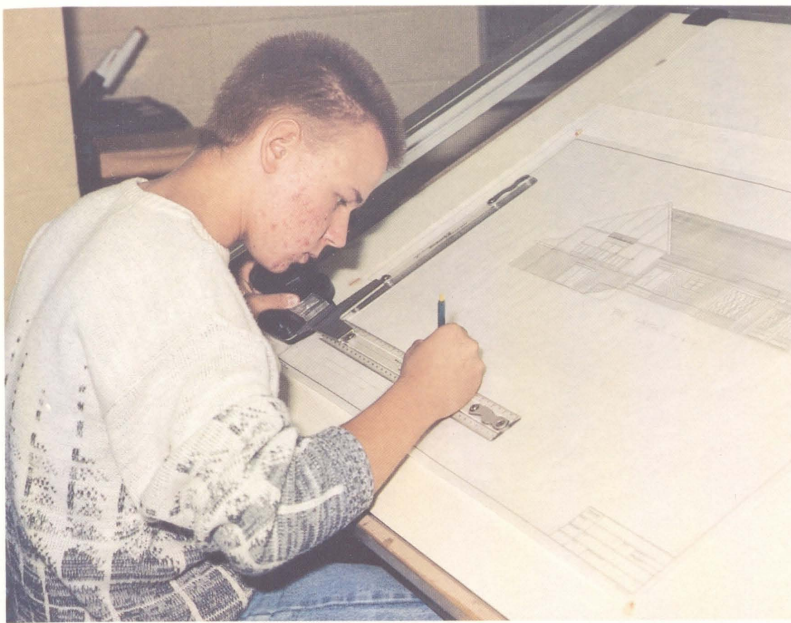

Bits of a Day

Early in the morning the halls at school lie dark and silent. Gradually, they come to life. The lights flip on as the first few students arrive. Lockers begin to click, and murmured conversations are heard. Soon, the doors swing more rapidly as students appear from all directions. Many twist their way through the parking lot attempting to reach the comparative safety of a parking place. Crawling from their cars, they begin the long trek to their lockers. Some struggle with combinations while others pop open their lockers effectively. Students hurriedly shove some books in the lockers, grab others, and slam the doors. Then they walk around and around the quads or stand in a knot blocking the halls.

More students arrive and loudly thread their way through the halls stopping only to talk once in a while. All too soon a bell rings and students scatter toward first period classes. In the parking lot a few begin to run. Those who do not make it to class on time head toward the office where administrators are hastily scrawling passes. Before long the classes are settled, and the halls are barren once again.

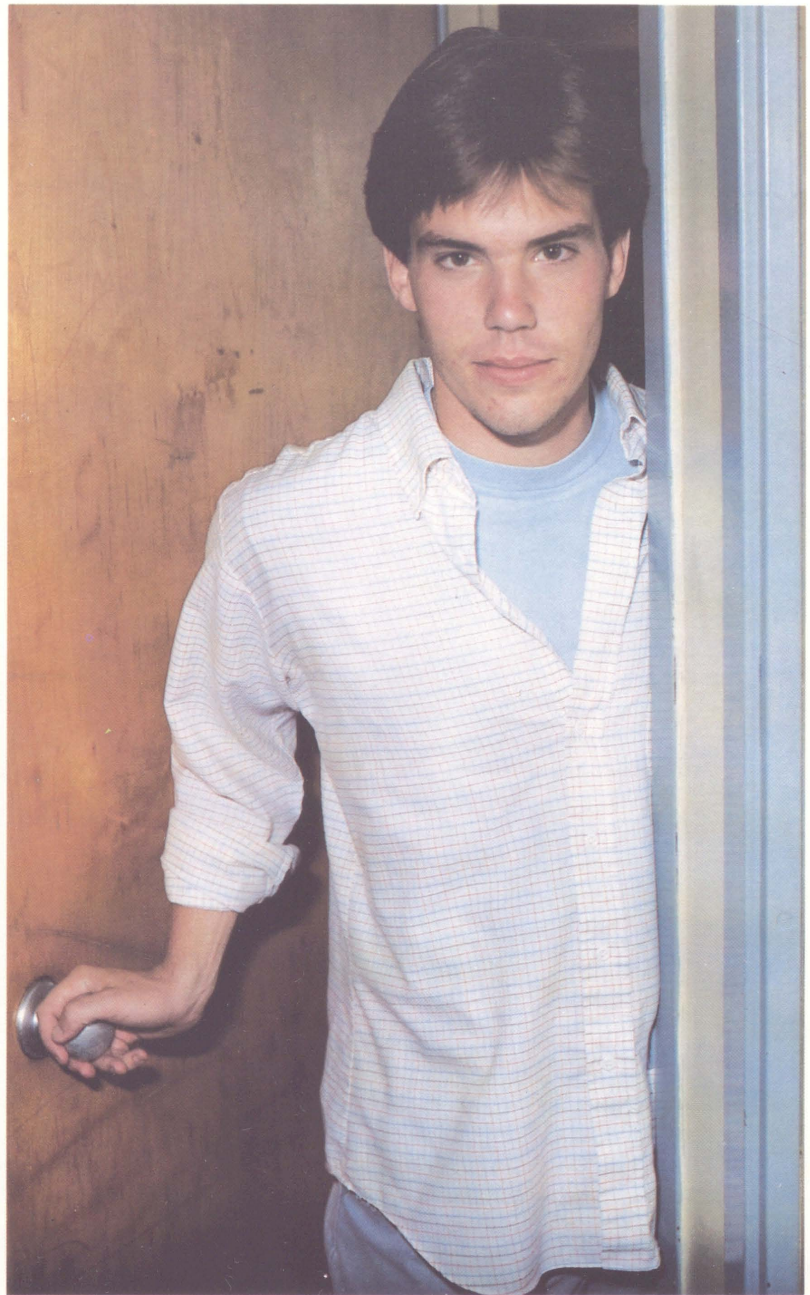

Pieces of a Classroom

Slumped over in their desks dozing quietly, students yawn, stretch, and doze again. Some sit staring stupidly into space or speculating on anything that happens by the windows. Others write notes to friends or sketch meaningless words and symbols across the pages of their notebooks. Daring ones whisper despite the chance of getting caught. Air, streaming from the vent, gently waves the flag. A lonely fly buzzes about the room. Only a few pay attention as the teacher drones on and on.

Suddenly, a watch beeps. Books slam. A bell rings. Students leap to life. The race for the door has begun.

Bits of Changes This Year

Inflation hit the lunchroom. The price for a standard meal jumped from $1.15 to $1.25. For thirty cents a student could purchase either a cup of tea or the cup without the tea.

New classes including advanced placement chemistry for seniors, advanced algebra II and advanced geometry for math team members, and electives in wildlife, animal science, and horticulture were added. The range of after school activities was broadened to include a swim team and Leo, a service club open to all students.

Southtrust Bank, our school sponsor, began issuing V.I.P. cards to students who made straight A's or had perfect attendance for the semester. By showing his card a student could obtain discounts for one semester at stores owned by local merchants.

The computer age struck Cullman High School. New computers in the office were used to schedule classes, record absences, store grades, rank students, and print report cards. Each new report card was a single sheet of paper with spaces not only for grades, but also for small comments such as highly motivated, satisfactory progress, or conference requested.

Like all new things a few complaints followed. Schedules were not available until open house on Sunday afternoon. Seniors were disgusted to discover that their grade point averages and ranks were not available until the second six weeks. Students thought the report card comments were rather impersonal and worse than no comment. Despite these few problems our school has entered the computer age — an age in which there is no one to blame except the computer.

Bits of Everyday Life

Lockers . . .

spiteful things that jam when hurried and pop if there is plenty of time.
old things that are always issued used with torn stickers, dented bottoms, and missing hooks.

frightful things with falling books, spilling papers, and people stepping on each other.

noisy things whose latches click and doors slam as owners yell from one to another.

unexpandable things that have level after level built toward the top.

decorated things with campaign slogans, favorite pictures, mirrors, and notepads.

stuffed things that contain shoes, coats, books, projects, papers, and even chocolate.

Oh, what would we ever do without lockers!

The test I failed, the new friend I met, the lunchroom food that I ate, the pencil I broke — all are examples of pieces that form the puzzles of our lives. Rarely do we stop to think of even a single day as a whole. Normally each event is seen as a separate defeat or triumph. Even our memories are only vague, shadowy bits with large gaps thrust between the glamorous moments and crushing times, yet each thing that we say or do adds another piece to the complicated puzzle of life. Each piece brings us a step closer to the finished product, for all of life is made of bits and pieces.

Bits 'n' Pieces

Pieces of Life as Juniors . . .

Meet first taste of college entrance tests.
Challenge seniors while relaxing in the knowledge that they are not forced to uphold the class.
Dream of being seniors.

Sophomores . . .

Extremely proud of no longer being freshmen.
Love to display their superior knowledge.
Think they will never survive through world history.
Endanger the lives of others when driving.
Usually so busy snubbing freshmen that they forget that they are underclassmen, too.

Freshmen . . .

Sit in the balcony.
Suddenly struck with real homework and the necessity of learning to study.
Lost at pep rallies.
Dream of letterman jackets.
Afraid of giving magazine reports.
Confused when faced with lunch line choices.
Bewildered by homecoming activities.
Dream of letterman jackets.
Wonder what the "Alma Mater" is.
Pretend they know what they are doing.
Worry about remaining hidden, although most soon discover that upperclassmen only bite occasionally.
Dream of letterman jackets.
As for upperclassmen, do not gloat too much, for we were once freshmen, too.

Bits 'n' Pieces

Bits 'n' Pieces of Features

Mr. and Miss CHS, Fair Queen, Homecoming Queen, Miss Southerner, Boys' State, Girls' State, Senior Hall of Fame, National Merit Finalist, and Most Outstanding Students are all distinguished honors awarded to students for beauty, talent, popularity, and academic achievement. Whether the awards are chosen by classmates or selected by teachers and judges, they honor students for developing their talents. Although many students work to obtain an award, only a lucky few receive one. Those who do not gain an award, but are willing to work for future success, could remember that Benjamin Franklin said, "Diligence is the mother of good luck." Those who succeed this time may gain glory, honor, and a small measure of fame; but twenty years from now will we remember who won?

of Features

Bits 'n' Pieces

Breaktime Activities

Walking around the quads.

Getting a little extra sleep.

Talking with friends.

Eating sausage biscuits and milk in the lunchroom.

Sitting in the sun.

Plaguing pledges.

Cramming for the test next period.

Cleaning your locker.

Racing to finish last night's homework.

Making copies in the library.

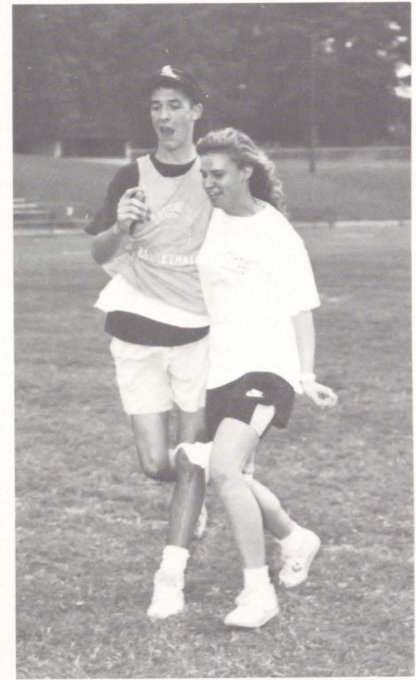

No matter what you do, this one part of the day always seems too short.

Bits 'n' Pieces of Sports

Dribble, pass, shoot
Bump, set, spike
Block, tackle, punt
Sprint, hurdle, jump
Vault, cartwheel, handspring
Pitch, strike, catch
Lob, volley, serve
Swing, slice, putt
Kick, head, score
Cheer, chant, yell

. . . words that remind us of sports.

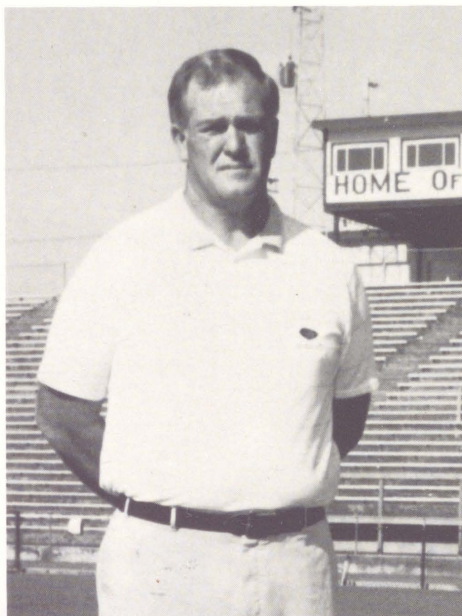

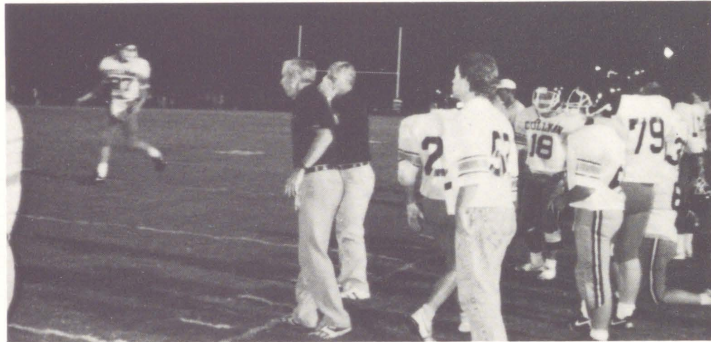

Altogether sports means hours of practice,
comparatively few minutes of competition,
and a great win or loss is accomplished.

Teachers . . .

- constantly hearing the same question — “Have you graded our papers yet?”
- struggling to maintain classroom discipline.
- making assignments, answering questions, grading tests, and then repeating over and over again.
- attempting to teach whether students are willing to learn or not.
- always available . . . in the teachers’ lounge.
- bleeding all over compositions. (There cannot possibly be that many errors!)

Bits 'n' Pieces

Bits 'n' Pieces of Ads

Advertisements assault us amidst the signatures in yearbooks. Shopkeepers lure us to their stores in hopes that we will buy, buy, and buy. New, lovely, useful, or useless things beg us to pull them from the shelves. Without money or means we gaze and wish, but with mother's credit card or a layaway plan who can resist the temptation? Let us enjoy every minute that we buy, buy, and buy.

"The grace of God means something like:
'Here is your life. You might never have been, but you are because the party wouldn't have been complete without you. Here is the world.
Beautiful and terrible things will happen. Don't be afraid. I am with you. Nothing can ever separate us. It's for you I created the universe. I love you.' There's only one catch. Like any other gift, the gift of grace can be yours only if you'll reach out and take it."

After Hours

As seventh period ends, the last school bell rings scattering students in all directions to drama rehearsals, scholar bowl drills, and club meetings. Some practice for sports or lift weights while others dabble with hobbies or just waste time with friends. Many join the work force to earn a few extra dollars. Whether they work or play after school, most students end the day doing homework, watching television, and finally falling into bed.

Bits 'n' Pieces of Wisdom

Although school is the center of social life and activities for most students, we must not forget that a school's primary purpose is to educate its pupils. Therefore, here are a few bits of thoughts worth remembering.

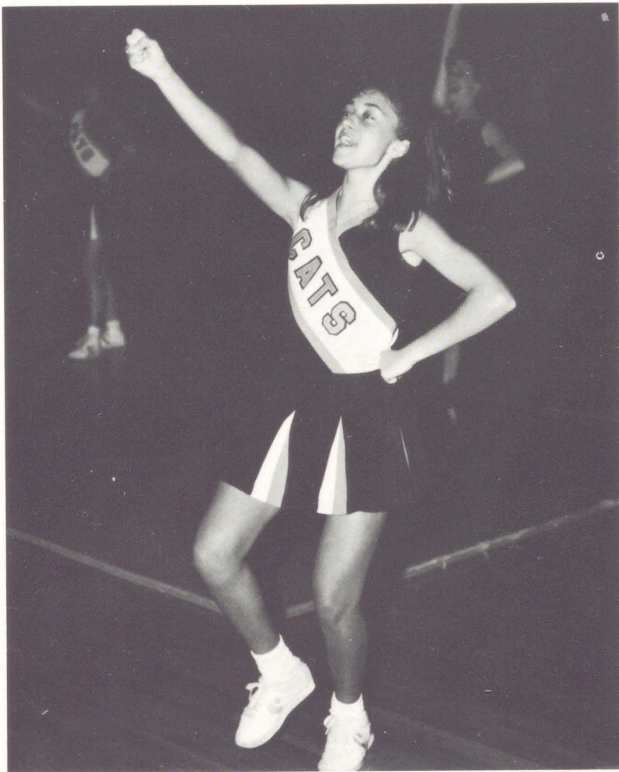

"Not failure, but low aim, is crime." — Lowell

"A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying in other words that he is wiser today than he was yesterday." — Pope

"We confess our little faults only to persuade others that we have no great ones." — La Rochefoucauld

"He that does a base thing for a friend burns the golden thread which ties their hearts together." — Jeremy Taylor

"If you want to be miserable, think about yourself, about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you and what people think of you." — Charles Kingsley

Bits of This Year

5¢ a pack for extra ketchup.

Cullman teachers rout Southtrust in volleyball.

Homecoming dance outside.

Class of '90 finally won homecoming.

Christy Munger wins Fair Pageant.

V.I.P. cards

No senior Christmas tree. Humbug?

Shorts in winter.

Bulletin boards with advertisements at school.

Senior wins Southerner pageant.

Communist regimes fall in Eastern Europe.

Computer report cards.

100% chance of snow; no school; no snow.

New Kids on the Block, Rolling Stones, Bon Jovi, Skid Row, Motley

Crue, Freedom Jam, and The Cult concerts.

Tricycles broke during homecoming race.

Lunch: $1.25

Senior spirit?

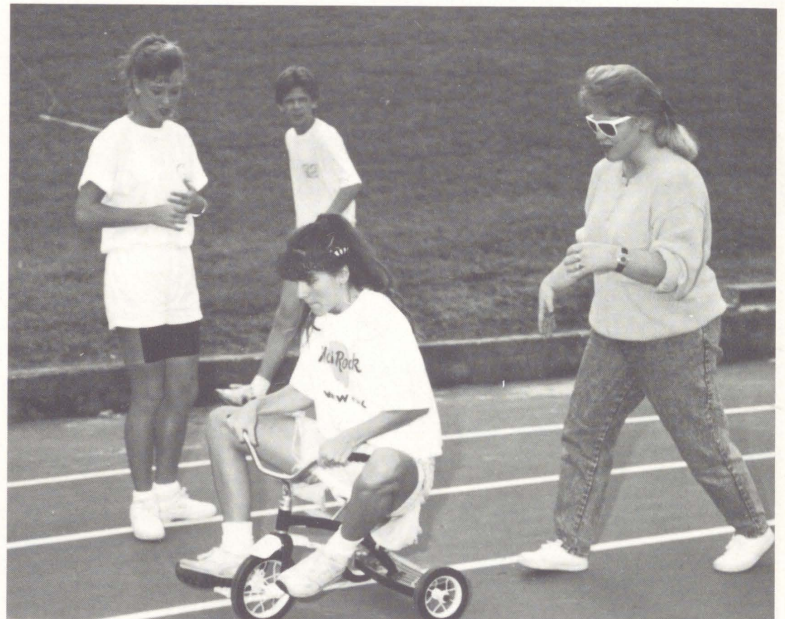

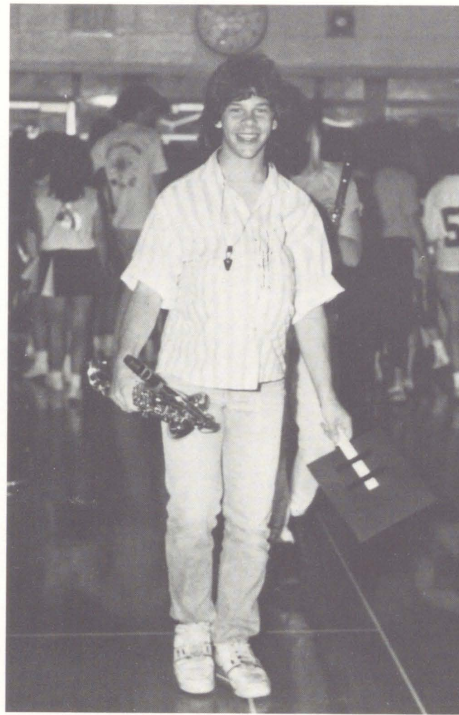

"Our Fabulous 50 States" on milk cartons.

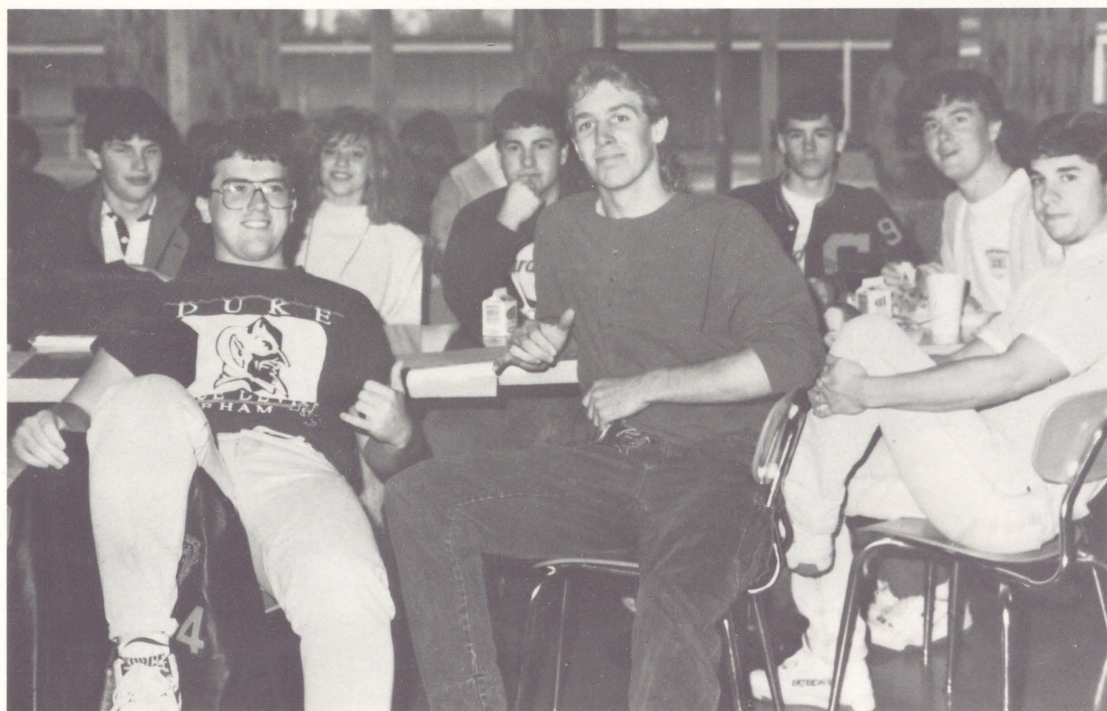

Teachers beat students in basketball.

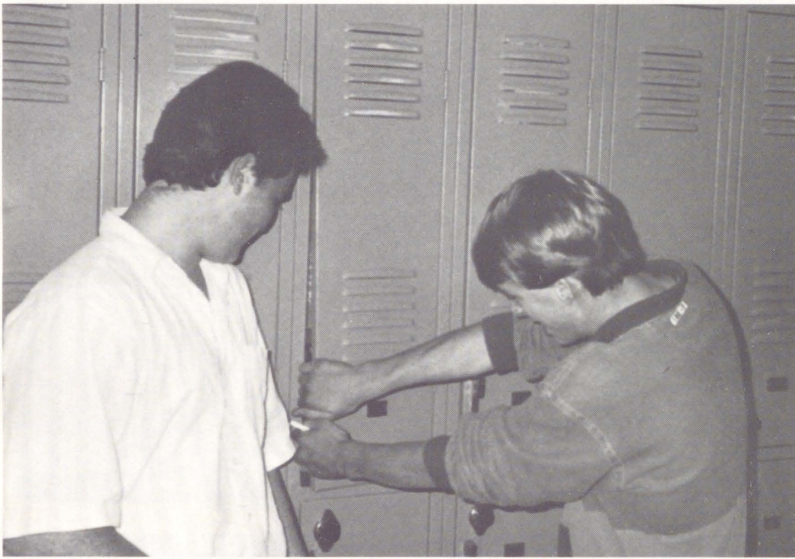

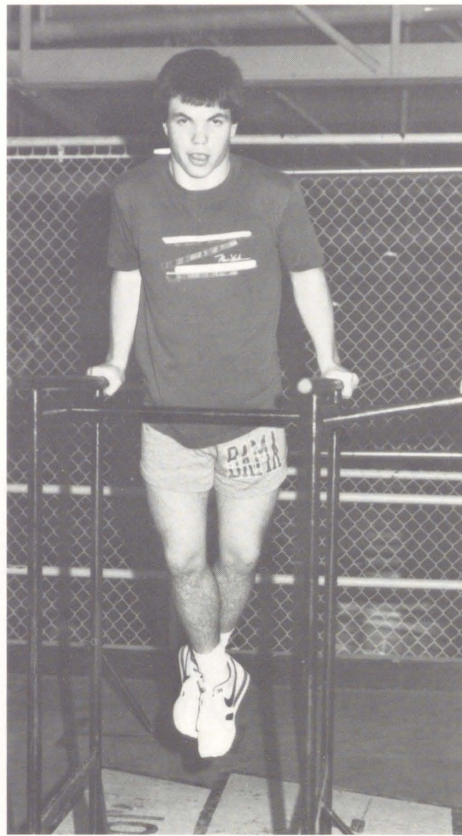

Water balloon fight at homecoming.

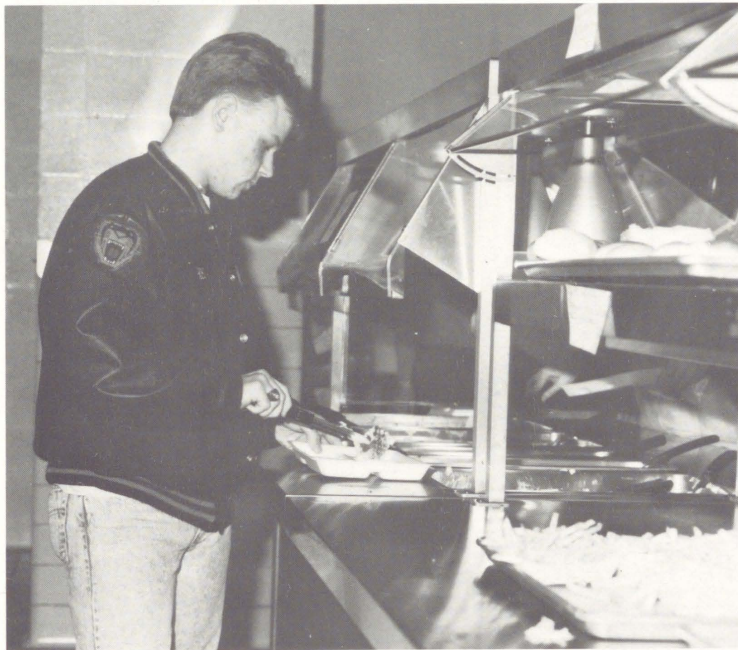

Mrs. McConatha graduates to other things with the class of '90.

It does not just rain; it rains and rains and rains.

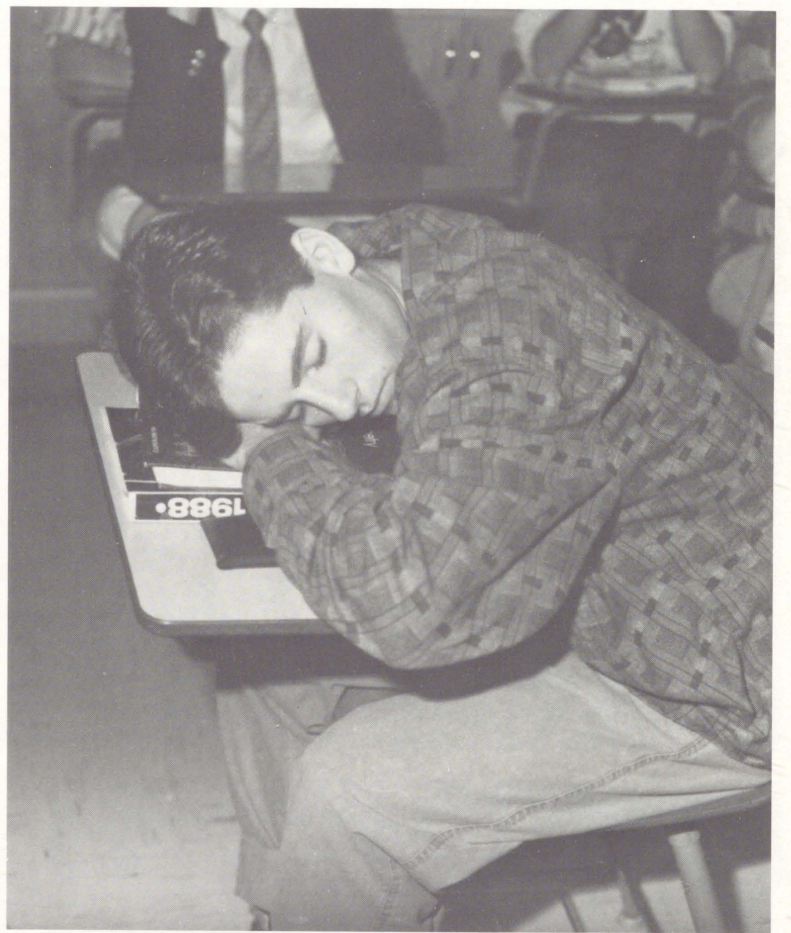

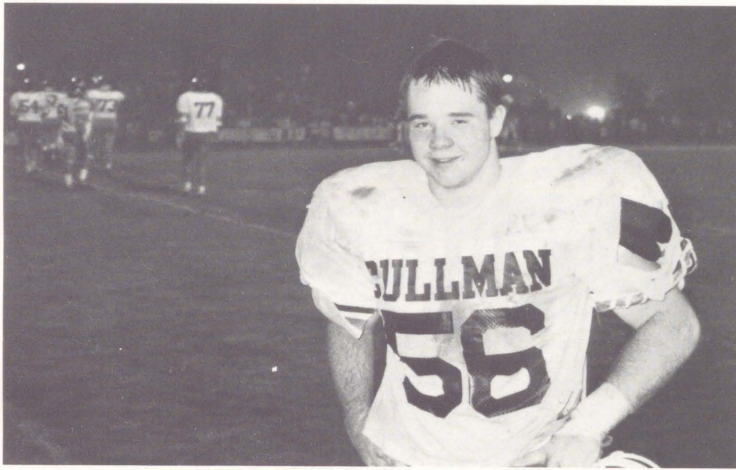

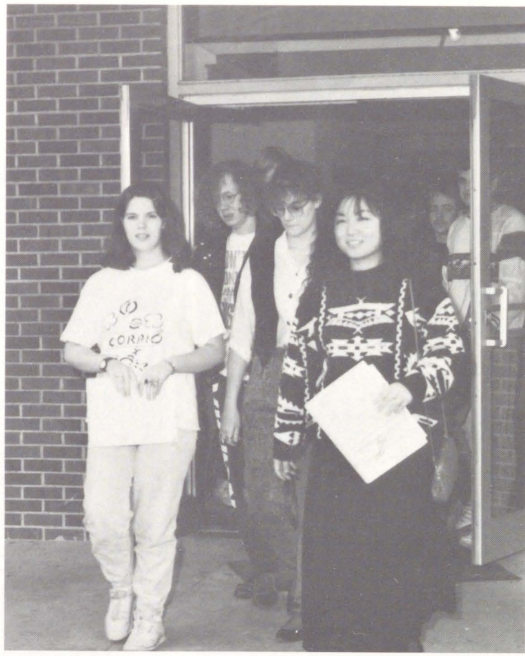

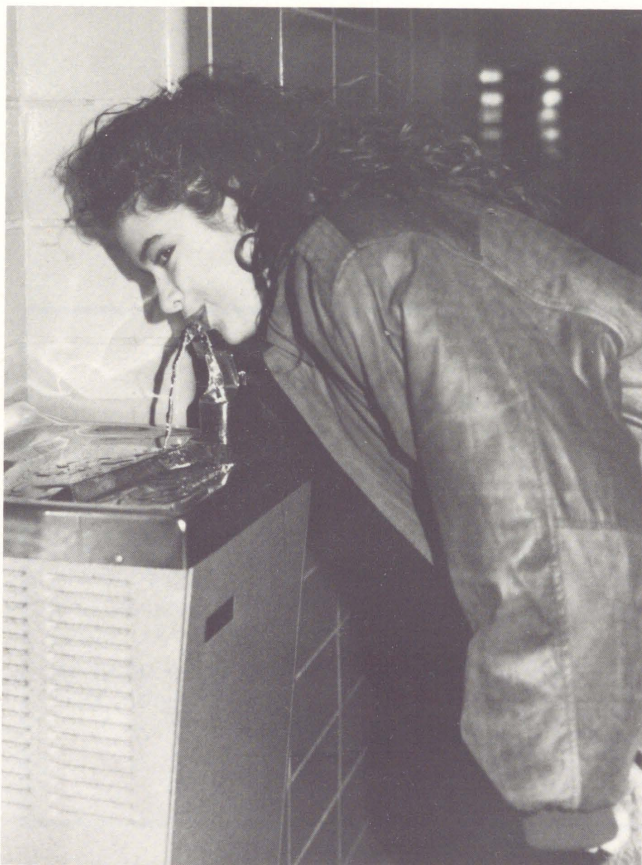

Looking backwards on this year, a pattern of life unfolds. A small section of the puzzle of each person's life is finished. For the class of 1990, this year is the end of a stage of life. The graduates will scatter to jobs and colleges across the United States. Some may never see each other again, but they will always remember the bits and pieces of the years they spent together. For the other classes the change may be less dramatic, but it will still be a change. Although they will return next year, there will never be another year quite like this one.

A year is gone leaving only bits and pieces behind. Those bits and pieces of experiences and lessons well learned will never be forgotten, but whether this year was a win or a loss, a new year and a new decade holding promises of the future lie before us.

Remember:

- The value of time.
- The success of perseverance.
- The pleasure of working.
- The dignity of simplicity.
- The worth of character.
- The power of kindness.
- The influence of example.
- The obligation of duty.
- The wisdom of economy.
- The virtue of patience.
- The improvement of talent.
- The joy of originating.
